

news release

VODAFONE LAUNCHES ADSL DATA OFFERING FOR UNLIMITED INTERNET ACCESS FROM HOME

including 30 hours a month of mobile internet

Milan, 23 April 2010 – Vodafone adds a new data-only offering to its ADSL range, created to meet the needs of customers who require unlimited access to the internet from home.

The new offering, which can be activated from today, offers 24-hour internet connection thanks to Vodafone ADSL. All customers who activate ADSL DATI will also have 30 hours a month of mobile broadband internet access, Internet Key included. The offering includes two months free access, after which the monthly subscription fee is €29. Vodafone ADSL DATI includes the 6GB mail @vodafone.it service, with antispam and antivirus programmes, and enables you to connect up to 8 PCs using Wi-Fi and 4 via LAN (including the game consoles most commonly used to play on line).

And there's more: all new customers who activate one of the ADSL Flat Ovunque, Tutto Flat Ovunque offerings or the Vodafone Casa Senza Limiti offerings will have free calls to Vodafone mobiles throughout 2010.

Moreover, young people aged 18 to 30 who activate a new Vodafone ADSL line can benefit from a further discount of €50, thanks to government incentives.

For more information visit <https://casa.vodafone.it/vodafonecasa/>.